C c Numb. 682

The Daily Courant.

Thurſday, June 22 1704.

From the Paris Gazette, dated June 14.

Mantua, May 28.

THE 25th of this Month the Grand Prior ſet out from hence, with 12 Battallions, 19 Squadrons, and a Train of Artillery, and the ſame Day encamp'd at Roncoferrato, the 26th he proceeded forwards, the 27th he arriv'd at Lebiola near the Po. The Night following he caus'd the Intrenchments the Enemies had made at the Sluices of Serravalle to be attack'd, by the Sieur de Serre, with 200 Grenadiers who broke into them Sword in Hand, with no more Loſs, than of 1 Grenadier kill'd and 2 wounded. The Pope not being able to prevail with the Imperialiſts to quit the Valleys of the Ferrazere on the Left of the Po, where they have taken Poſt; the Marqueſs of St. Fremont has ſent 1500 Men into the Ferrareze on the Right of the Po, to keep the Enemy in Alarm on that ſide.

From the Amſterdam Gazette, dated June 20.

Venice, June 7. 'Tis confirm'd from the Camp at Oſtiglia, that the Marqueſs Davia is return'd thither with 600 Men, and that Recruits from the Trentin arrive daily by the way of Peſcantina: The Imperialiſts expect 5000 in all. The Generals Erberſtein and Bagni keep ſome of their Men conſtantly at work to fortifie their Poſts, and render them inacceſſible by Sluices and other Works. The French are encamp'd over againſt Serravalle, which is 3 Leagues from Oſtiglia. It appears that the Grand Prior, who advanc'd from Mantua with 6000 Soldiers and 2000 Peaſants with deſign to attack Serravalle, found ſome great Obſtacles to ſurmount, and has therefore encamp'd ſome of his Men at Ponte Molino.

From the Amſterdam Gazette, dated June 17.

From the Camp at Creſcentino, May 29. The Enemy have carry'd their Bridge from Gabiano down to Pondeſtura, which ſhews they have given over all thoughts of beſieging Verrua, as being an Enterprize of too great Difficulty. The Duke of Vendome's Army is conſiderably weaken'd within a few days, by Sickneſs and Deſertion; This very day 12 of his Soldiers came over to us with their Horſes: Monſieur d'Albergotti has ſet Men at work to fortifie Monceſtin, Villadeati, Montiglio, Cunia, Tribec and Montcalvo. Monſieur du Gua is fortifying Aſti. He lately ſent out 200 Men to burn Celle, where they committed Sacrilege in the Churches, and threw the Hoſt upon the Ground. This inſtead of terrifying the Peaſants has enrag'd them. Monſieur du Gua has expell'd the Capuchins out of Aſti, and impriſon'd the Franciſcans. The Prince of Lorrain march'd from the Boſcarina t'other day with 600 Horſe to Vercelli, where being joyn'd by 800 Foot of the Gatriſon, he hover'd about the Seſia, with deſign to fall upon the Spaniards; but all he could find an opportunity of doing, was to ſurprize and make Priſoners a Corps de Garde of 30 Horſe, after which he retir'd.

Turin, June 7. We have Advice from the Camp at Creſcentino, that the French are drawn near Vercelli. His Royal Highneſs has promis'd a Reward of 1000 Piſtoles to the Perſon who ſhall bring him the firſt News of the Enemies having laid formal Siege to that Place. A Party of our Huſſars has taken ſix led Horſes and ſeveral Mules, belonging to the Duke of Vendome, and loaded with his Plate and other rich Effects, after having beaten their Convoy, and brought their Booty into the Camp of the Allies. The Duke of Vendome has ſent a Trumpet offering to redeem his Plate, but 'tis ſaid the Prince of Lorrain has anſwer'd, that he would keep it in remembrance of the Duke of Vendome.

From the Paris Gazette, dated June 21.

From the Camp before Vercelli, June 5. The Duke of Vendome decamp'd from Fontaneto the 30th of laſt Month; and arriv'd the ſame Day at Dezana; where he halted till yeſterday, to give time for perfecting the Works which he had order'd to be made at the Head of the Bridge of Trino, and in the Avenues of that place; as alſo for carrying on the Intrenchments at Tricero, a Place ſituate between Trino and Dezana, which is a Poſt neceſſary for preſerving a Communication with the Montferrat; which Country he thought proper to cover from the Incurſions of the Enemy. For which Reaſon likewiſe, he reinforc'd the Body commanded by Count Albergotti to 10 Battallions and 7 Squadrons, which with the Militia of the Montferrat are poſted in Intrenchments at Gabiano, Varango Odalengo, Montalero, and at Viſta de Ati on the little River Stura. To aſſiſt him in caſe of Need, the Duke of Vendome has poſted 3 Regiments of Dragoons at Trino and 2 at Tricero, which in 2 Hours time can joyn Count Albergotti. He has poſted 5 Battallions and 9 Squadrons at Dezana, under the Command of the Marqueſs of Langalerie; he has likewiſe poſted Troops in the Caſtles of Lignano, and Montalaro, and in the Village of Caſal Roſſo, which is advantagiouſly ſituated becauſe of the Marſhes that lye round it. To conclude, he has caus'd all the Roads leading to the Duke of Savoy's Camp to be broken up for a long way together; and has caus'd others to be made behind the Poſts of which the French are poſſeſs'd, that in a little time they may all joyn. The Duke himſelf has extended his Left to the Canal that comes from Yvrea, and his Right to the Caſtle of Lavizate towards the Seſia, The Marqueſs de las Torres, with the Troops he commands, and a Detachment of the Duke of Vendome's Army, has inveſted Vercelli on the other ſide, with his Right at the Canal of Yvrea, and his Left towards the upper part of the Seſia. Juſt now we receiv'd Advice from the Camp of Lebiola, that the Grand Prior of France was making Preparations to ateack the Torre di Serravalle, which cover Oſtiglia; that one of the Enemies chief Ingeniers is deſerted to him; and that the Pope has ſignified both to the French and Imperialiſts, that they muſt retire out of the Eccleſiaſtical State, otherwiſe he will make uſe of the Cenſures of the Church to oblige them to it, and will joyn his Troops to thoſe of the 2 Parties who ſhall retire againſt the other that ſhall not do it.
